

the remainder of the gift goes to your Episcopal Church or other Episcopal organizations. You then have the security of an income stream, the knowledge that your parish will benefit, and a tax savings.

The amount of the charitable deduction is based on your age and can be as much as 50% of the original gift, which could result in a substantial tax savings. The Episcopal Church Foundation can create a personalized illustration for you that shows your specific deduction. And wouldn't it be nice to know that a little less of your money is going to a distant government agency and, instead, to ministries you care about for years to come?

IT'S TAX TIME AGAIN

The dreaded April 15th tax date can bring with it many emotions. You might feel a great deal of frustration, as you try to find all the necessary documents to complete your return and determine which figures correspond to which questions. You might feel some irritation, as you watch your hard-earned money go to Uncle Sam. Once everything is calculated, filled in, and signed, you might finally feel some relief that at least it's all over for another year.

Next year, why not make at least the irritation part a little less painful? Perhaps you could consider remembering your parish with a life-income gift. These gifts, which include charitable gift annuities, charitable remainder trusts, and the pooled income funds, all provide you with an income as well as a charitable deduction that can be used to ease your tax burden. At death,
